GAME OVER?

Not yet. The media in the UK would have us believe that it is game, set and match to the supermarkets in the provision of legal services to the consumer. The Co-op is already actively marketing the provision of legal services in the UK on the web and Tesco is set to follow.

Are we bothered? Yes. At Fearon & Co we do not believe in the commoditisation of legal services, impersonal service and an absence of competition. We believe in providing a high level of personal service to suit individual needs delivered through dedicated members of suitably qualified partners and staff, the majority of whom have spent many years training and working within the practice.

Details of the people you can expect to encounter at Fearon & Co are all on our website. Each of them will be happy to provide you with advice within their given area of expertise.

At a time when many firms are struggling to survive we find a constant demand for assistance from non-resident lawyers. Although the firm has connections with Ireland dating back to the 19th century, its focus abroad has been relatively recent. But now we receive regular instructions from our professional colleagues, not only from the Republic of Ireland but also throughout Australia and New Zealand and not forgetting America, Malaysia, South Africa and the South Pacific - amongst other places in the world. Maybe we should not be so bothered after all!

Congratulations to last year's winner of the Fearon & Co Winter Draw 2008 who lives in Australia.

Merry Christmas!

A JOHN PHILLIPS
