REASON TO BE HOPEFUL

The majority of Fearon & Co’s work is now generated from overseas on the recommendation of foreign lawyers for whom we have done work in the past. It pleases me that, as a small practice using modern technology, we can achieve both an international presence and retain a loyal following at home focusing on the provision of English legal services in the areas of Probate, Property and Litigation. The firm is now well-placed to make progress with new target markets abroad and compete effectively at a local level at a time when other firms are struggling to adapt to reduced volumes of work and react to mounting competition.

The good news in the UK is that there are some signs of economic recovery. House values have in many cases returned to pre-2007 levels and the market for London property is strong. The UK Stock Market has also rallied. However, expected Government cuts and a rise in unemployment could soon put paid to any increase in consumer spending and hinder the recovery process. But at Fearon & Co we have every reason to be hopeful about the financial prospects for 2011 given the broadening of the firm’s client base abroad – a process begun in earnest in 1998.

I am particularly grateful to those law firms in the Republic of Ireland, New Zealand and Australia who have supported us during this recessionary period and I like to think that judged by the testimonial page on our website our services have been well received. We value your continued support and please do remember that in relation to any new matter a member of the Fearon & Co team will always be at hand to discuss a case with you on an initial free of cost basis either by phone or by e-mail – or face to face if you prefer!

Finally, many congratulations to last year’s winner of the Fearon & Co Winter Draw 2009 who lives in the Republic of Ireland.

Merry Christmas!

Regards

A. John Phillips
