

2018 – DOORSTEP DISASTER?

Boris Johnson at Eton! Amusing he may be, but he has no place in politics today.

Another referendum? Definitely yes. The people made a woefully uninformed decision. Too, they lacked the education to understand why we embarked on the European Project in the first place. A sorry state of affairs.

The dangers ahead are various – rising interest rates, inflation and negative economic growth included. And don't forget national security and the threats presented by foreign powers. Russia comes to mind. Fancy a trip to Salisbury?

Anyway, time to be positive. On an international level there has been a significant increase in the level of introductions from lawyers in the Republic of Ireland, New Zealand and Australia in the areas of Probate, Property and Litigation and Fearon & Co continues to expand on it's connections with lawyers in Jersey, Guernsey, Isle of Man, Northern Ireland and elsewhere worldwide.

Surely yes. No person, acting sensibly, could now make a good case in the UK for abandoning the European Project. Why? Because it's all about the economy and national security. Simple – and I did not have the benefit of a university education. Nor did I share classes with

So thank you to all our contacts abroad for supporting us during this Doorstep Disaster.

And Merry Christmas, of course!
